
Title: DISCIPLINING SOLDIERS

Author: Sethmantih

It hath become necessary to create a means of disciplining our soldiery.
Though the soldiers we are given to work with are generally obedient and disciplined, on occasion an unruly soldier will appear in the ranks. It would be foolish to merely dismiss this able-bodied man, for in these times of war every hand capable of holding a sword must do so. Nay, dismissal is not the answer. What, then, are we to do with those who resist the teachings of discipline? By what means may we save this soldier from the lure of Chaos and place him firmly back on the path toward being a useful implement with which to smite the Chaotic forces?
With these questions our Master did challenge the wisest men in the Temple.
I, Sethmantih, did solve these challenges...
